Systematic Theology (Part 1, 2 & 3) 9 semester credits

This course has three component modules built around the classic text by the well known author and Bible- teacher Kevin J. Connor. It provides an intermediate approach between the simplistic and more in-depth doctrinal studies available. The student will gain an understanding of the major Bible doctrines, and be rewarded by a well researched text and teaching course to provide a secure foundation for the complexities of living. The course requires study of 12 major divisions of theology and completion of 12 position papers of 750 words each, answering the questions raised. The text used is: The Foundations of Christian Doctrine, by Kevin J. Conner. Audio tapes available.

BBS301 Biblical Studies VII

Unveiling the Word 4 semester credits

Beware! This very unique course has the track record of radically altering the lifestyle of the student and bringing a sense of purpose and destiny to the serious believer who is discontent with the shallow waters of mediocrity and who wants to achieve great things for God! In the study of this course module, the student will learn God's hidden message from Genesis to Revelation, gaining a totally new perspective on the world in which we live. The course is built around the textbook written by Bob Sjogren and requires the student to listen to or view the teaching sessions and then complete the given assignments. The student is required to submit a 2500 word project researching an Unreached People Group, either in his or her own nation or overseas. The text used is Unveiled at Last, by Bob Sjogren. Audio & Video tapes available with work book.

CSW301 Practical Theology III

Christian Service Practicum 2 semester credits

The student will continue to work out the issues of truth involved in supervised Christian service and ministry, completing no less than 60 clock hours of service activity. Written reports of the service activity will be submitted by the student's supervisor.

PCL302 Pastoral Theology I

Practical Christian Leadership 4 semester credits

Good leadership begins with a clear understanding of tested principles of management and human relations. The leader then builds on practice and experience to develop his or her skills, cultivating the qualities and personal traits that make an effective manager. Underlying this is the necessity to be thoroughly Biblical. This course has been written by Dr. Kevin Dyson to help the potential Christian leader get a clearer picture of what he or she wants to do and how to get there. The module requires a minimum of 20 teaching hours and requires the student to complete 14 written assignments and submit a 2500 word analysis of a chosen text on the subject of leadership.

Course Materials:

Practical Christian Leadership, by Kevin Dyson.

Audio tapes of the same title (excluding workshops)

Recommended Elective Texts: (Choose one):

Leadership, by Philip Greenslade

Developing the Leader Within You, by John C. Maxwell

Spiritual Leadership, by J. Oswald Sanders

Perils of Leadership, by Kenneth Prior

Hand Me Another Brick, by Charles R. Swindoll

PCC302 Pastoral Theology II

Christian Counseling 4 semester credits

This course, written by Joy Dyson, clarifies the three levels of counseling most commonly encountered within the Christian church, and teaches how individual students may find their respective levels of function. The course deals with common problems faced in counseling and gives practical Biblical solutions to bring these problems to resolution. The student participates not only in classroom teaching, but also practical workshops and role play sessions. This module requires a minimum of 20 teaching hours and requires the student to complete 16 written assignments, along with a 2500 word analysis of the text: Freedom to Choose, by Ernest Gruen.

Course Text:

Christian Counseling, by Joy Dyson

Audio tapes available (excluding workshop sessions)

SPW301 Biblical Theology IV

Spiritual Warfare, Prayer & Intercession 3 semester credits

Spiritual warfare requires a sound understanding of not only the realms and roles of the enemies we face as believers, but also our rights, enablings and authority, as the elect of God, to address the situations we face in life. The course is built around the text by Dean Sherman entitled Spiritual Warfare which provides twelve hard-hitting and practical chapters on this important issue. This module requires a minimum of 20 teaching hours and the completion of the written assignments at the conclusion of each chapter in the text. The student must also submit a 2500 word analysis on a chosen elective text from the recommended list.

Course Text:

Spiritual Warfare, by Dean Sherman (with audio tape set)

Recommended Elective Texts: (Choose one):

Purpose in Prayer, by E.M.Bounds

Touch the World Through Prayer, by Wesley L. Duewel

Taking Our Cities For God, by John Dawson

Prayer Shield, by C. Peter Wagner

Warfare Prayer, by C. Peter Wagner

Prayer is Invading the Impossible, by Jack Hayford

PAW301 Practical Theology IV

Praise & Worship 4 semester credits

This course is designed to give the student an understanding of the place, purpose and power of Praise and Worship within the church today, by examining its Biblical framework through Scriptural exposition. This module is built around a recorded live teaching series on the subject by John Wimber and associated staff from Vineyard Ministries. There are ten sessions to listen to, and the student is then required to read one of the following texts and submit a 2500 word analysis on it. Audio/video tapes available.

Recommended Elective Texts: (Choose one):

The Power of Praise and Worship, by Terry Law

Restoring Praise & Worship to the Church, by Blomgren, Smith, & Christoffel

Let Us Draw Near, by Judson Cornwall

Let Us Worship, by Judson Cornwall

Song of the Lord, by David Blomgren

NTE301 Biblical Theology III

New Testament Evangelism 3 semester credits

This module is built around the video series and textbook by Rebecca Manly Pippert, called Out of the Saltshaker. The course gives students the key ingredients for sharing their faith in Christ with people who are outside the church, hence the title. The student will be required to complete a series of exercises in practical evangelism as part of the course, and must read a supplementary text that requires a written submission response. 12 class/video sessions are involved.

Course Materials:

Out of the Saltshaker, by Rebecca Manly Pippert and video series of same title

Recommended Elective Texts:

Everyday Evangelism, by Ray Comfort

Bringing' `Em Back Alive!, by Danny Lehman

Evangelism as a Lifestyle, by Jim Petersen

How to Give Away Your Faith, by Paul E. Little

MIS401 Missiology I

Missions - Biblical Perspectives 2 semester credits Perspectives on the World Christian Movement has been described as the greatest modern textbook on the subject of developing a vision for the nations. Yet it is not only that, but more. The student will gain a unique missions understanding from both the Scriptures and the experiences of seasoned missionaries of the overall perspective of God's desire to reach the world in our generation. This course requires the student to use both a special book of Readings, as well as a study manual. The first module in the series: "The Biblical Perspective," explores God's abounding purposes that His people participate with Him in bringing His redemptive rule to all the peoples of the earth. The student will learn that God is a missionary God and that He requires our obedience to seize the opportunities of the hour. In this module the student is required to use the video instruction tapes (if not a live classroom unit), and complete all the assignments allocated for the series.

Course Text:

Perspectives on the World Christian Movement - A Reader, edited by Ralph D. Winter & Steven C. Hawthorne

Study Guide of the same title

Audio/ video tapes of series available.

MIS402 Missiology II

Missions - The Historical Perspective 2 semester credits

This is the second module in the four module series. "The Historical Perspective" examines the progress and continuity of the Christian Movement in world history. Various strategies and notable figures of the major epochs shed a penetrating light on the current situation and the remaining task of world evangelization. The student will be given an overview of the expansion of the world Christian Movement and the various eras of Mission History. In this module the student is required to use the video instruction tapes (if not a live classroom unit) and complete all the assignments allocated for the series.

Course Text:

Perspectives on the World Christian Movement - A Reader, edited by Ralph D. Winter & Steven C. Hawthorne

Study Guide of the same title / Audio/video tapes of series available

MIS403 Missiology III

Missions - The Cultural Perspective 2 semester credits

This is the third module in the four module series, and "The Cultural Perspective" pinpoints crucial issues of cross-cultural communication and service. It suggests a fresh Biblical understanding of identification and contextualization in the remaining missionary task. The student will learn about the principles of culture, cross-cultural communication, building bridges into another culture, establishing a church in another culture and the necessity of having a team of individuals who are committed to working within the culture as servants to the indigenous people. In this module the student is required to use the video instruction tapes (if not a live classroom unit), and complete all the assignments allocated for the series.

Course Text:

Perspectives on the World Christian Movement - A Reader, edited by Ralph D. Winter & Steven C. Hawthorne.

Study Guide of the same title

Audio/video tapes available

MIS404 Missiology IV

Missions - Strategic Perspectives 2 semester credits

This is the fourth module in the series. "The Developing of Strategic Perspectives" demonstrates to the student the task remaining, how to develop a strategy for world evangelism, the spontaneous multiplication of the churches, pioneer church planting, and a survey of the unreached peoples of the world. "Strategic Perspectives" offers guidelines for understanding an overall strategy of reaching the world's unreached, focusing on strategies of evangelism and church planting, relief and development, going and sending, and the vital place of prayer. The student is required to use the instruction tape series and complete all the allocated assignments, as well as develop a special project to reach an Unreached People Group.

Course Text:

Perspectives on the World Christian Movement - A Reader, edited by Ralph D. Winter & Steven C. Hawthorne.

Study Guide of the same title / Audio/video tapes available

BBW401 Biblical Theology XIV

Building a Biblical Worldview 4 semester credits

This course is designed to help the student determine the answers to the competing worldviews that bombard believers in their daily living. The student learns about the consequences of colliding worldviews, and has to address the issues of evil and also pluralism. Through a well presented text the student is able to gain a Biblical worldview for self, family, church, and the world. The course is built around the text written by Phillips & Brown. The student will read the text and submit written answers of 500 words per chapter to address the issues raised.

Course Text:

Making Sense of Your World from a Biblical Viewpoint, by W. Gary Phillips &

William E. Brown

No audio/video tapes

LSE401 Biblical Theology III

Biblical Evangelism 4 semester credits

Biblical Evangelism is a 24 hour-a-day activity for everyone. From home, to school, to work, to play, you are constantly sending out a message to those around you with your mouth and your lifestyle. This course is designed to show what that message and lifestyle should be and how it relates to our culture. The course ascribes evangelism not only to the church and the pastor, but also to the ordinary members who seek to live an effective lifestyle. The student will read the text and complete both written and other special assignments that will make the knowledge gained become meaningful in his or her experience of life.

Course Text:

Lifestyle Evangelism, by Joseph C. Aldrich

Study Guide of same title

MIN401 Biblical Ministry V

Growing a Cell Church 4 semester credits This course addresses the problems experienced by many involved in church planting wherein they see little lasting fruit for their labor. The course seeks to examine from Scripture the theology and practice of growing a "Cell-based Church," as opposed to the conventional "Program Based Model" so frequently employed. The student will gain a fresh understanding of what God is doing throughout the world today, and particularly in respect to the conservation of the harvest of souls that is abounding in so many nations. This is a radical investigation that is based upon a truly Kingdom oriented "trans-cultural model" that works! The course is built around the audio tape series by Bill Beckham, entitled, "The Two Winged Church Shall Fly," and is supported by several pivotal textbooks. The student will listen to the whole series, and then having read the supplementary texts, complete a special project in relationship to Cell Church Planting, either as an Intern, or in service of another sort.

Course Materials:

The Two Winged Church Shall Fly, Audio tape series

Study Manual of same name

Supplementary Texts:

The Second Reformation, by Bill Beckham,

Where Do We Go From Here?, Ralph W. Neighbour Jr.

ETB 401 Biblical Studies VIII

Church History Overview 4 semester credits

This course, written by Dr. Linda C. Johnson, provides a sweeping look at Church history, and yet includes sufficient focus on specific points of history as to make the subject very interesting. This is the story of a people and a faith told in a lively style that makes history more than just factual information, but life-giving "manna." The course requires 15 lessons with concurrent written assignments based on the Course Texts and Work Manual supplied. The student also will also read the text: Bride of Christ or Old Maid?, by Dr. Linda C. Johnson and write a position paper on given questions.

BHN411 Biblical Theology IX

Introduction to Hermeneutics 4 semester credits

The Bible records the revelation of an unchanging God and presents an everlasting Gospel. These are subjects of universal and eternal validity. However, the record itself is related to particular times and places that are remote from the experience of Bible readers today. This course will enable the student to think through what is purely local and temporary and distinguish what is of abiding relevance. This module is built around the widely read text entitled How To Read The Bible For All It's Worth by Fee & Stuart. The student will read the text and work through a series of exercises that require the practicing of Biblical exegesis. Each chapter includes questions that will be answered and submitted for grading.

Course Text:

How to Read the Bible for All It's Worth, Fee & Stuart

HOM411 Biblical Theology X

Introduction to Homiletics 4 semester credits

All budding preachers want to know how to preach more effectively! This course provides the student with the benefits of a seasoned preacher, who has taught on the subject of Homiletics for over 20 years. The course will focus, first, on the call to preach and, second, the preacher himself. The course then deals with general approaches to sermon construction (while allowing for a diversity of methods), and finally focuses on both the dynamics and techniques of pulpit communication skills. The student will read the text and complete nine scheduled exercises. In addition, the student will preach several sermons that are critiqued and assessed. Knowledge gained will be translated into relevant experience!

Course Text:

Introduction to Homiletics - 2nd Edition, by Donald E. Demary.

(The text includes a supplementary bibliography for the preacher's library)

NTG411 Biblical Theology XV

Learning to Read N.T. Greek 4 semester credits

Without a doubt the best way to study the New Testament is to read it in the original language. This course was developed in Uganda for students who were not native English speakers, and thus was produced in a simplified grammatical format. The consequences are that the average western student will be able to read portions from the Greek New Testament after a few lessons. The course is built around an audio tape series and textbook produced by the Bible Society in England and Wales. The student will work through the exercises and audio teaching sessions, while completing the Greek reading and exegesis exercises. Lest people faint at the thought of such a task, it needs to be stated that the course was designed for non-native English speakers who do not have the benefit of westernized higher education.

Biblical Hebrew Step by Step 4 semester credits

After years of classroom testing and development, this new course for learning Biblical Hebrew has been released by Menahem Mansoor, considered one of today's foremost teachers of Hebrew to university students, seminarians, preachers and others alike. The course comes complete with audio tapes and exercise assignments for the student. The course covers five main areas for the student to grasp:

1. Vocabulary
2. Grammar and notes, including examples
3. Biblical word lists of the words most frequently used in the Bible
4. Study hints to help the student work out the lessons
5. Exercises to develop writing and reading skills which are essential to understanding Hebrew

Vision for the Nations 4 semester credits

It has been said that we are living in a shrinking world, and that the age of modern travel has brought our neighbor within a few hours' jet travel. The electronic information revolution taking place is making every remote place instantly reachable. No longer can we choose to be isolationist and ignore the needs of our brothers and sisters in far flung and remote lands. This course will expose the student to a pivotal understanding of the heartbeat of God for a lost and dying world. Without a living relationship with the One True Living God and the experience of forgiveness of sin by the sacrificial death of Jesus Christ - the first born Son of God, men, women, boys and girls are doomed forever to a lost eternity. This course is in essence a mini-version of the "Perspectives on the World Christian Movement" module. It consists of 12 videotaped lessons, that will bring the student into an awareness of the Eternal Purposes of the Father. The student will complete a written assignment for each lesson. There is a supplementary text to read and a 2500 word analysis of this text will be submitted for assessment.
